Language and physical development, self confidence, using imagination

Bim works hard in his job sweeping up at Zelda's Circus, but he dreams of performing in the big top and never gets the chance to walk the tightrope or try on the costumes. As he introduces all the strange and wonderful performers in the circus, the children help him find his special talent and make his dream come true. The circus acts are all represented using familiar household objects and materials providing a stimulus for creative play in class.
